

COUNCIL HAS IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM UP

Widening of Business Streets Proposed for 1929

Proposed program 1929 local improvements: Construction of storm sewer system in down town district. Widening of Galena avenue from Second street to bridge. Widening Peoria avenue, three feet on each side from First street to River street. Cutting back corners and reclaiming city owned property at North Galena avenue and Lincoln way.

The above plans for the improvement of the city were either acted upon or discussed favorably by the members of the city council in their regular weekly session last evening. Chief among the proposals was the building of a storm drain sewer system in the down town district at a cost of over $12,000 which, according to the plans will be started early this spring. The board of local improvements of the council unanimously adopted a resolution originating scheme, under local improvement ordinance 245, covering this important work. The engineer's estimate of the cost of the storm sewer project is $12,100. A territory covering the business district, which last summer and several times within the past few years, has suffered heavy losses through the flooding of basements, is included in the ordinance, which will be given a public hearing in the council chamber on Tuesday evening, February 12.

First street, Commercial alley, Peoria, Hennepin and Galena avenues, Truman court and a number of intersecting alleys are named in the ordinance, which are to be relieved of the storm water menace through the construction of an adequate storm sewer system.

Commissioner John Loftus suggested to the council, the proposition of widening Peoria avenue from First street north to River street by taking three feet from each side of the street. He declared that the additional six foot width would be necessary with the opening of traffic at the completion of the Peoria avenue bridge.

Would Make Easier Turn. Commissioner Loftus also advocated the much needed widening of the corners at North Galena avenue and Lincoln way. He explained that heavy auto traffic at this corner, could not effect the turns on account of the lack of space. The commissioner advocated the cutting off of the four corners and the changing of the sidewalks to provide relief for automobile traffic, and was strongly in favor of immediate action on this important improvement with the opening of the spring program of city work.

Would Widen Galena Ave. Commissioner George Campbell suggested widening of the principal streets in the business district. The commissioner strongly favored the widening of Galena avenue from Second street to the bridge and urged this improvement be included in the spring work. Commissioner Miller while a member of the board of local improvements six years ago, advocated the widening of both Galena avenue and First street, but his suggestion apparently fell on deaf ears and remained in a dormant state until being revived last evening. The Telegraph urged this improvement for many years.

"We've talked about these things long enough, now let's get busy this spring and carry out some of these improvements which we have discussed and boost Dixon in this manner," Commissioner Campbell addressed to his suggestion.

Filling Station Turned Down. The resolution asking the city council to amend the filling station ordinance in an effort to secure the establishment of a filling station on the southwest corner of Peoria avenue and Second street, was voted down unanimously by the members of the council. City Attorney E. E. Wingert expressed his opinion holding that the consent of the property owners would be necessary. Several persons opposed to the construction of the filling station at this location were present and were heard by the council members.

W. W. Lehman, a property owner in the neighborhood, was strongly opposed to the method of establishing the station in the residential section. Prof. L. B. Neighbour, representing the congregation and officials of the Methodist church, expressed strong opposition. In his remarks, he referred to a resolution passed by officials of the church demonstrating against the location of the station at this point. Mayor Palmer's name appearing as a member of the official board and City Clerk Grover as steward. Other property owners were present and voiced their objections.

Leand: Hess, who appeared for the location of the station, asked that the council vote on the resolution so as to close the action. Com.

SONG BIRDS AND QUAIL WILL DIE IF NOT FED SOON

Ground Sheathed in Ice—Put Out Food for Them Today

Yesterday's rain, which was transformed into a solid sheet of ice covering all the snow and sleet which had previously covered the ground, played havoc with all of the birds, and the squirrels, too, perishing their food supply and making it practically impossible for them to forage for themselves. Therefore, all lovers of birds should see to it that they get some food or they will perish. All birds, except the cardinal and rose-breasted grosbeak, like cheese when it is cut fine and mixed with other food. A sprinkling of fine salt over any food for the birds will give it relish. Feeding shelves may easily be put outside the doors, making an easy place to put food. Bird suet can be tied in bushes and trees and many birds seem to like cup up apples, buckwheat, crackers, broken nuts, pop corn, old bread and most all kinds of grain and seeds.

Quail Came Into Town. A story from Morrison shows the dire straits to which the feathered ones have been driven. A quail having strayed from his native haunts in search of food. He was seen wandering around on the sidewalk in front of a cafe in that city and finally followed a customer inside. He perched on some lattice work in the rear of the room and finally was enticed to the floor by some bits of food, which he consumed in record time. He was finally turned loose and went on his way.

Raise Fund In Sterling. In Sterling the proprietor of a hunting goods store opened a subscription list to raise funds to purchase grain for quail and over $25 was quickly subscribed by sportsmen of that community. This money was spent for grain, which sportsmen took out to places where coveys of quail were known to exist and scattered around.

Man Married Here Fatally Injured

A fatal coasting accident on Rock Island Monday evening, which cost the life of Carl Schubert, aged 29 of that city, revealed his marriage in Dixon on December 17, to Miss Amelia Pfeifer of Moline. The ceremony was performed at the Evangelical Lutheran church in this city, and had been kept a secret by the young couple. Schubert and his two sisters were coasting Monday evening. He took the sled and running a short distance, "flopped" on the ice covered snow. A few minutes later his sisters heard him call and going to his side, discovered that he had incurred a deep laceration of the jaw. He was ordered removed to a hospital and was able to walk to the operating room, but died an hour later, while under the anesthetic. Internal injuries and hemorrhages are believed to have caused his sudden death. The Schubert family are well known residents of Rock Island.

MARINES DIE IN ENCOUNTER WITH OUTLAWS

Three Americans Met Death in Fight in Nicaragua

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Latest advices from northern Nicaragua state that three Marines of a patrol of seven which clashed with outlaws northeast of Yali in the Department of Jinotega on Monday, were killed.

Those killed were privates Everett A. Rector of Des Moines, Iowa, whose death had previously been reported; Rastus Collins of Lyons, Ga., and George T. Oswill of Miami, Fla. First word of Rector's death was brought to Marine headquarters by a messenger yesterday while additional advices received today told of the deaths of the other two. Only meagre details have been received of the clash.

Steps toward declaring martial law in the northern departments are being taken by the Nicaraguan authorities and the training of volunteers for service in the region is going on rapidly.

AN EARLIER REPORT.

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Another American marine has been killed in northern Nicaragua and volunteers were being trained today for warfare on outlaws who have been harassing the district.

A messenger brought word to Marine headquarters that Private Everett A. Rector had been killed in action by outlaws.

He had no details of the combat which occurred northeast of Yali in the Department of Jinotega. It was presumed that a Marine patrol encountered the outlaws in the jungle far from a telegraph line.

The last previous clash occurred on January 10 in northern Segovia when Lieutenant William S. Smith, an American medical officer, was wounded and two native guards were killed.

SHIPS FIGHT FOR LIVES IN STORMS ON THE ATLANTIC

One Believed Lost—Two More Are Calling For Help

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The steamship America reported by radio at 11 o'clock this morning that she was so close to the disabled freighter Florida that the latter's wireless signals were very strong. The liner President Harrison had previously reported that she could not find the Florida.

The America said that the tanker Dannedaika also in distress in the same general vicinity—800 miles off the Virginia Capes—had set up a jury rig and was attempting to make Bermuda under her own steam.

SHIPS STILL AFOAT

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The Radio Marine Corporation reported early today that the Italian freighter Florida and the American tanker Dannedaika in distress 800 miles east of the Virginia Capes were still afloat but that three ships going to their rescue had not yet reached them.

BELIEVE SHIP IS LOST

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The storm-lashed Atlantic today was believed to have claimed one ship while it reared mountains against the rescuers of two others in distress.

Search for the British freighter Teesbridge with her crew of 30 was abandoned when rescue vessels could find no trace of her 300 miles east of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

Fighting a slow passage through the storm—almost hove to at times—three ships struggled toward a position 800 miles east of the Virginia Capes in response to calls for help from the American tanker Dannedaika and the Italian freighter Florida, with about 60 men aboard. The Florida was the first to send an SOS, saying her rudder was gone and her life boats smashed. A few minutes later came the call for help from the Dannedaika. She gave no details of her trouble, only saying she needed help at once. Her position was about 50 miles from that given by the Florida.

MURDER CASE IS ON DOCKET FOR MONDAY MORNING

Negro to be Tried in Circuit Court for Compton Shooting

State's Attorney Mark C. Keller and Sheriff Ward Miller were in Compton today, checking up on witnesses who will appear in the Circuit Court Monday when Ira "Sleepy" Chatman will go to trial, charged with the cold-blooded murder of Isaiah Jarman in a Negro labor camp in the city park at Compton about midnight October 27. Since the day following the murder, Chatman has been a prisoner in the county jail.

The shooting was the outgrowth of an argument which developed during a card game in one of the shacks in which several Negro men and women were quartered. The Negroes were employed by the Regenhart Construction Company of Cape Girardeau, Mo., who were building the Meridian highway paving in Brooklyn township. It was alleged that the men had been drinking liquor which had been brought from Mendota, and that Jarman was playing cards with two others, when Chatman entered and participated in the game.

When Chatman dealt the cards in the game known among the Negroes as "funny cards," Jarman is said to have found fault with the deal. An argument ensued in which it was said that Jarman charged Chatman with misdealing the cards. The argument became more heated and names were called, whereupon Chatman is said to have left his seat, and backing up to a small table, reached under a cloth, seized his revolver and fired point blank at Jarman, the bullet entering below the abdomen and tearing through the intestines.

Jarman then arose and saying, "I'm shot" left the shack and fell on the ground outside. The word of the shooting spread rapidly and Jarman was taken to the hospital of Dr. C. G. Pool, where an emergency operation was performed and the bullet recovered. Internal hemorrhages resulting from the wound resulted in his death a few hours later.

Ran to Mendota

Chatman left the shack after the shooting and according to a Sheriff Ward Miller the following morning, ran across fields, to Mendota, where he went to the home of one of the members of the contracting firm and asked for money. Early the following morning he was brought back to Compton and turned over to Sheriff Miller.

A speedy trial was in prospect for the murderer, and the grand jury for the September term of court was recalled to investigate the shooting. Several witnesses, men and women members of the Negro camp were called and testified before the grand jury, which after completing its investigation, returned an indictment charging murder.

A jury will be selected in the circuit court Monday to try the case, which heads the list of criminal cases at this term of court.

PLAN TO CARRY MAIL TO HARMON TWICE EACH DAY

To provide better mail service for the people of Harmon a plan whereby mail will be sent to that village from Dixon twice daily by motor bus will be tried out; bids for the temporary service having been asked for, and if the arrangement proves satisfactory bids for yearly service will be invited. The new arrangements are made necessary by the recent change in the train service furnished by the Burlington railroad, and officials are now working out a definite schedule for the bus.

It is expected mail for Harmon will leave the Dixon post office at 7 a. m., arriving in Harmon at 8. The return trip will be started immediately, and a second round trip will leave the local office at 4 p. m., arriving in Harmon at 5 and returning at once. Plans are also under consideration to give Walton rural free service from either Dixon or Ambrose.

Iowa Murder Case Reaches Jury Today

Burlington, Iowa, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The case of John Vaughn for the slaying of Max Shepler on Huron Island more than a year ago was expected to reach the jury late today. The defense planned to complete its testimony by noon.

Indications were that the case of Jake Zippler, charged jointly with Vaughn with the crime, would be tried next.

Testifying yesterday, Vaughn contradicted statements he was alleged to have made in a confession which the state introduced. Denying a previous statement that fear of Shepler had prompted the crime, Vaughn admitted that the man had never threatened him until the day before the slaying.

GOV. EMMERSON'S NOMINATIONS GET SENATE APPROVAL

Cabinet Selections Get Unanimous Support in Senate

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Cabinet officers named by Governor L. L. Emerson were unanimously confirmed by the Senate this morning. Thirty-eight senators answered "aye" on roll call. Directors confirmed were Kinney of Peoria, Brandon of Mooseheart, Low of Kewanee, and Kohn of Anna.

A number of Senate Republicans which resulted in committee changes, delayed announcement of committee assignments. Awaiting this action the senate recessed.

MANY NEW BILLS

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Members of the 56th General Assembly had half a hundred new legislative proposals to consider today following the first business sessions of both houses yesterday.

Paving the way, House members yesterday morning brought in more than twenty-five bills, none of major import, and two resolutions—one for investigation of graft charges against members, and one seeking an equitable senatorial reapportionment.

Following this lead, state senators last night cast more than thirty bills into the legislative hopper. These included several important measures: Senator Lantz' income tax bill, the only specific measure yet proposed for equalizing the tax burden; Sen. Bohrer's bill for publication of state payrolls; Senator McCauley's proposal for more hospital facilities for ex-service men at Jacksonville State Hospital; several bills designed to put tests into criminal laws; and a measure to place a tax on bus companies using hard roads, proposed by Epier C. Mills of Virginia.

The Senate executive committee today has under consideration the first names in Governor Louis L. Emerson's slowly forming cabinet:

Garrett Kinney, Peoria, Director of Finance; Rodney Brandon Mooseheart, Director of Welfare; Leo H. Lowe, Kewanee, Director of Trade and Commerce; and Henry H. Kohn, Anna, Director of Purchases and Construction. There will probably be confirmed an early date.

Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield has been chairman of the Senate committee on revenue. Other important committee chairmen were announced last week.

Changes were in minor committees. Chairmanship were formally awarded, as follows:

Judiciary committee, Barbour; Executive committee, Barr; Appropriations, Wright; Public Utilities, Bientz; Insurance, Kessinger; Waterways, Haenish; Agriculture, Lantz; Banks and Banking, Hamilton; Reapportionment, Wilson; Corporations and Industrial Affairs, Huebsch; Education, Cuthbertson; Roads and Highway Transportation, Dunlap; Military Affairs, McCauley; Municipalities, Mason; Parks and Boulevards, Joyce; Elections, Flagg; Public Health, Mills; Forestry, Fish and Game, Jewell; Judicial Department and Practice, Michaels; World's Fair, Woods.

After making the chairmanship announcements the Senate recessed for a perfunctory session tomorrow morning, and adjournment until 5 o'clock next Tuesday. First, among items of business for Tuesday will be two election contests.

COLD WILL STAY UNTIL FRIDAY, SAYS FORECAST

Middlewest Is Sheathed in Ice—No Relief Tomorrow

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Two atmospheric disturbances, one in eastern Kansas and the other in the Pacific Northwest, today, today had pointed midwestern temperatures toward zero and below. Gales whipped Lake Michigan, ice covered pavements and open roads, and in several states there was promise of more snow.

The renewed cold snap, which the weather bureau said would be severe, came as the trail of rain and warming winds which had left streets, sidewalks and fields soaked. With the temperature drop, the water froze coating most of the middle-west with ice. Chicago was resorting to sand and ashes to make foot and motor traffic less dangerous.

SENATE VOTES 24 MILLIONS FOR DRY U. S.

Hoover Will Direct Expenditure of Enforcement Fund

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Twenty-four million dollars has been voted by the Senate to help enforce prohibition. The President would direct the expenditure of the money and in addition he would have at his disposal $250,000 to make an investigation of prohibition generally.

The story of the voting of the $24,000,000 yesterday included the usual clashes between wets and dries in the Senate and off stage, apparent disagreement between leaders of dry organizations. Added to this was Secretary Mellon's opposition to the proposal.

In the course of the senate debate, Bruce of Maryland, a wet, made the statement that the Apostle Paul gave his approval of liquor for medicinal purposes.

Roasts Sen. Heffin

"Whiskey can be bought by any senator for such a purpose" observed Senator Heffin, of Alabama, a dry. "How goes the Senator know that?" was Bruce's counter. The senator from Maryland chuckled over his sally and so did some of the others.

Bruce Stated It All

Senator Bruce, while he voted against the increase yesterday, may have been in a measure responsible for it. While at appropriation bill was being considered some time ago he put on record a statement that would add $250,000,000 for liquor law enforcement.

The senate was napping and the amendment went through, later to be removed in conference. The wets regarded it as a good joke. But some of the dries said they believed more money was needed to help dry up the country.

While the first deficiency bill was being considered, Senator Harris, of Georgia, a dry, proposed an amendment that $25,000,000 be added for prohibition enforcement. The $24,000,000 voted yesterday was the outcome of this, the roll call being 50 for and 27 against the proposal.

The President was given broad powers for the disposal of the $25,000,000. He must distribute it to government departments concerned with prohibition enforcement, but he may spend all, or only a part of it, as he sees fit. The money would be available until June 30, 1930.

M-BRIDE LIKES IT

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, issued a statement today "heartily approving" of the $24,000,000 appropriation for prohibition enforcement to be placed at the President's disposal.

Mr. McBride said: "I heartily approve of the fund passed by the Senate and placed at the hands of the President to be allocated through the different departments having to do with prohibition enforcement. This can be used under a budget by the departments. 'Following the dry victories of the recent election it was a foregone conclusion that the dry Congress would give the President, who carries the load of responsibility for enforcement, what funds were necessary to aid him in the enforcement of the prohibition laws. While the apparent politics involved has prevented some of the leading dries from voting for it in the Senate, yet it need not do so in the House and committees. The House I think should concur in this appropriation.'

Scott McBride Has No Fear of His Job He Tells Friends

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 23.—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent and legislative representative of the Anti-Saloon League, expects to retain his position despite reports that Edwin C. Dinwiddie of Washington has been suggested for the legislative post.

McBride, here yesterday for a state league meeting, minimized friction in the organization over the $24,000,000 additional prohibition appropriation adopted by the senate.

He declared that he and Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit agree on the increased fund over which they had been reported at variance, except that McBride believes it must come from the budget.

Dr. A. H. Briggs, director and superintendent of the League's California division, who was quoted in Washington dispatches as urging Dinwiddie's selection as legislative representative, is regarded by McBride as one of his best friends and co-workers the latter said.

Irwin of Springfield, president of the state association.

HUNTING TRIP A WRECK.

Christ Bauer of Chicago paid a fine of $100 and the costs on a charge of transporting and possessing intoxicating liquor when arraigned before Justice J. O. Shauls in police court late yesterday afternoon. Three pints of liquor which were packed in cigar boxes, were ordered to be held for a period of ten days and at the expiration of that time, to be dumped in the sewer.

Bauer and five friends drove out from Chicago yesterday to enjoy a hunting trip in Palmyra township. At Wheaton a car loaded with officers halted them, suspecting them to be engaged in the milk war. Two trucks had been halted near Wheaton and their cargoes of milk and butter dumped into the ditch. Bauer and his friends secured several bottles of cream and milk and a quantity of butter which they had when halted by police again at Dixon, their proposed hunting trip being completely disrupted.

FUNERAL PARTY IN AUTO CRASH WAS KNOWN HERE

Former Lee County People Met With Bad Accident

A number of former Dixon and Lee county residents figured in a serious automobile accident Sunday near Exposition park on the highway entering Aurora. E. T. Gehant, former proprietor of the Dewey hotel in this city, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McCrea who lived near West Brooklyn a number of years ago before moving to Aurora and Mrs. Bieschke, who was a former Brooklyn township resident figured in the accident. The following account of the crash is contained in the Aurora Beacon-News of Monday evening:

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McCrea, 70 Gale street, were injured in an automobile accident near Exposition park Sunday while returning from St. Charles where they had arrived over the Great Western railroad with the body of their 12 year old son, Donald who died at Mayo Bros. clinic at Rochester, Minn., Friday afternoon. The boy died following an operation for the removal of a brain tumor.

Mr. and Mrs. McCrea had been at Rochester with their son about a week. When they arrived at St. Charles they were met by E. F. Gehant, South Broadway grocer and brother of Mrs. McCrea, and Mrs. M. J. Bieschke, 308 Fox street. They entered the automobile of Gehant, who was at the wheel.

Because of the slippery roads Mr. Gehant drove cautiously but when the car neared Exposition park it skidded and crashed into a post. Mrs. McCrea suffered a double fracture of the pelvic bone and other injuries and Mr. McCrea was cut on the forehead and also received an injury to his shoulder. Mrs. Bieschke sustained a bad cut on the forehead and Mr. Gehant was badly shaken up.

All of the victims were taken to St. Charles hospital where they received medical attention. Later in the day Mr. McCrea, Mrs. Bieschke and Mr. Gehant were able to go to their homes. Mrs. McCrea, however, may be confined to the hospital for some time, it was stated today.

Dying, He Confesses.

Bellevue, Ohio, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Shaken by his experiences in the bus crash here yesterday which killed 17 passengers outright, Teddy O'Brawski, of Brooklyn, confessed during the night to two bank robberies before his name was added to the death list early this morning.

Seriously injured in a hospital, O'Brawski fought for his life until he realized it was hopeless, and then admitted that he committed a bank robbery in Detroit last summer, and another in California some time previously.

He did not say which banks he robbed nor how much money was obtained.

Start Investigations.

Four investigations have been started to determine responsibility for the crash of a Lake Shore Electric train and a Greyhound lines bus. Of the 14 injured, three lay in hospitals so critically hurt that they may die.

The investigations began with action by Dr. C. L. Bell, Huron County Coroner, assisted by Edward Martin, County Prosecutor. A blinding snow storm was streaking across the northern part of the state at the time of the wreck.

Edward Butler, Cleveland, driver of the bus, who is in a hospital with severe cuts, said he stopped the bus at the crossing, looked in both directions for approaching trains, and then proceeded when the way appeared clear. He wiped the snow from his windshield before walking to the crossing, he said.

The interurban motorman, Fred Schuyler said he blew two whistles, threw on his emergency brakes and reversed the engine when he saw the bus on the crossing. Schuyler escaped injury. None of his passengers was seriously hurt beyond minor bruises and shock.

Other investigations were in progress by the Grey

PRELUDE
The young snow come on snugly slipped feet—
Races the hilltop, wondering lingers
Down by the valley path; a lonely child
With the glow scarf of the wind in his fingers.

He will seek out the darkened window ledge
Where no hand has set a warm lamp burning;
He will lie down to rest in shadowed doorways
Where he is sure no steps will be returning.

Only to quiet will he give his magic,
Only into the lap of silence spill
His pale laughter and then turn shyly homeward,
Leaving the world pure white and softly still.

The Lee County War Mothers, at their regular meeting Friday afternoon, in G. A. R. hall, installed their officers for the current year, the installation being in charge of the Department President, Mrs. Jennie Carlson of Joliet, in whose honor a picnic dinner was served at the home of Mrs. John Strub prior to the meeting, the ladies enjoying a very pleasant hour.

Mrs. Carlson was very much pleased with the work of the local chapter during the past year and she expressed her hope that the same amount of hospital work will be done this year.

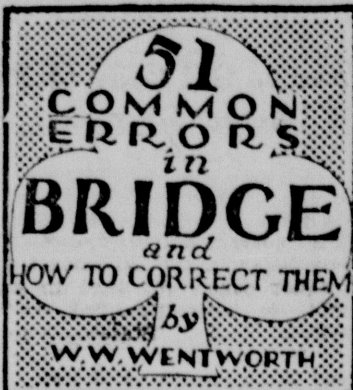

The local ladies were fortunate to have as their guest not only the department president but also the senior vice president; who assisted in installing the following officers:

President—Clea Bunnell.
S. V.—Florence Hardesty.
J. V.—Ellen McIntyre.
3rd V.—Agnes Phalen.
4th V.—Augusta Weststead.
Cor. Sec.—Viola E. Strub.
Treas.—Lucy Eastman.
Rec. Sec.—Rebecca Young.
Chap.—Hannah Miller.
Historian—Anna Moore.
Custodian of Record—Margaret Potter.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Mary Walker.
Musician—Nettie Coakley.
Color Bearers—Julia Bradley, Bertha Morgan.
Auditor—Rose Nafziger.
Mrs. Bunnell, the new president, presented Mrs. Carlson with a frigid set with the best wishes of the chapter. The chapter is sponsoring a dance tomorrow evening, the proceeds of which will be used in hospital work, and it is hoped the patronage will be large.

19. SURRENDERING CONTROL OF TRUMP SUIT

North (Dummy)—
♠ 9 4 3
♥ 10
♦ 9 7 5 2
♣ K Q J 9 6

West—
Leads ♠ K

South (Declarer)—
♥ A K Q J 2
♦ A 8 4
♣ 10 5 3 2

The Bidding: South bids one heart. West bids one spade. North bids two clubs. East passes. South bids two hearts and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads king of spades and then ace of spades. Declarer wins the second trick with 2 of hearts. He now seeks to establish his clubs before drawing trumps. East wins the third trick with ace of clubs and leads a spade. What card should declarer now play?

The Error: Declarer trumps with Jack of hearts.
The Correct Method: Declarer refuses to trump and discards a losing diamond. Opponents are then reasonably sure to lead another spade and declarer discards another losing diamond. No matter what card opponents now lead, game is assured. If declarer had trumped the fourth trick he would have endangered game as he could not have exhausted opponents of trumps which must be divided at least four and three.

The Principle: As a rule it is inadvisable to permit the strong hand to be forced.

Old Styles Back at Opera Opening

By DIANA MERWIN
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

Paris—(AP)—Fashion did a backward flip when the Diaghilev ballet had its first night at the opera. There were ground length skirts, fitted bodices and long kid gloves aplenty in the crowd of fashionable women that turned out for one of the biggest nights the Paris opera has had this winter.

The ground length skirts, which swept like trains on the grand staircase of marble, included Chinese red satin dress with princess bodice and square décolletage. It was worn by a slight blonde woman with a fringe of curls on her forehead and shingled back hair. A long tight wrap of silver lame reaching to the ankles was another creation that caused comment.

Among the wearers of white kid gloves of more than elbow length was Mrs. Jefferson Davis Cohn, considered one of Paris' well dressed women. Mrs. Gene Tunney, who attended with her husband, and had to undergo the stares from many pairs of opera glasses during intermissions, was one of the few women wearing long sleeves. Her gown was heavy black lace with closefitting square neckline.

The jewels of a young English matron who wore a double halo of diamonds on her blonde curling hair and clusters of diamonds falling just in front of her ears, like small bunches of grapes, were particularly elaborate.

Phidians Enjoyed Meeting Tuesday

About thirty members of the Phidians Art Club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Edwards Tuesday afternoon, where they enjoyed a most delightful program. Mrs. H. U. Bardwell in her usual interesting way, gave an enthusiastic report of the Civic Music Ass'n convention, held recently in the Palmer House, Chicago, which was attended by eight members of the Phidians. The Dixon Civic Music Ass'n was originally sponsored by the Phidian Art Club, the members of which may be all proud of mothering this organization, which is rapidly growing in talent and membership. The gloomy outdoors was forgotten by the members as Mrs. Moore described vividly the lights and shadows on the life of Eddie Foy, the well known comedian, who was the heroic actor of the Iroquois Theater fire, Chicago.

Mrs. Barlow and Mrs. Dysart assisted the hostess in pouring and serving dainty refreshments.

Gave Delightful Talk to Kiwanians

Mrs. Florence P. White of the south side high school faculty, gave a very interesting talk before the Dixon Kiwanis club at the regular meeting Tuesday noon. Mrs. White and son John enjoyed a motor trip from Dixon to Tampa, Fla. last August and at that city took a steamer to Cuba where they spent a week. Entering northern Florida they were in the midst of the hurricane and their vessel was 24 hours late in reaching Havana due to a second hurricane which swept the west coast. Florida and Havana papers published the passenger list of the vessel which was believed to have been lost at sea. Her travelogue proved very interesting, coupled with the many thrills which she experienced.

Annual Meeting Juvenile Protective Asso.

Chicago, Jan. 23—(AP)—Juvenile delinquency in Illinois, and its treatment, will be reviewed at the annual meeting here Tuesday evening, January 29, of the Juvenile Protective association.

Announcement of the meeting was made by Miss Jessie F. Binford, director of the association. It will open with a six o'clock dinner at the Chicago Woman's club. Invitations have been issued in the name of the Directors and the Protective Association and the Directors of the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice. "The meeting," Miss Binford said, "promises to be of unusual interest for in addition to the annual reports of the year's work of the Juvenile Protective association there will be presented a resume of two most important studies made during the year in connection with the report of the Illinois association for Criminal Justice."

Clifford K. Shaw will present his study on "The Extension of Juvenile Delinquency in Chicago and Illinois," and Harrison A. Dobbis will review the study made by Earl D. Myers on "The Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency in Cook County and Illinois." "Everyone who is interested in juvenile delinquency and the beginnings of crime should hear these reports and know how the citizens of this state are meeting their responsibility toward the existence and treatment of delinquency."

Ladies of G. A. R. Change Meeting Days

The Ladies of the G. A. R., Circle No. 73, held their first meeting under the supervision of the new officers Monday evening in G. A. R. hall, the attendance being noteworthy. The president, Lillian Stevens, appointed her committees for the year and it is hoped to make the current year a banner one. The meetings days of the Circle have been changed, the first Monday evening and the third Monday afternoon being designated for future gatherings of the organization. Members have been appointed to have charge of the financial affairs of the Circle and the first activity under the new officers will be a baking sale Saturday. An invitation from the W. R. C. to attend their installation was accepted and many of the Circle ladies plan to attend. The next meeting will be held Monday evening, Feb. 4th.

FRENCH WOMEN FIGHT TO PLAY PELOTE GAME

Paris—(AP)—Women may practice any sport but pelote in Paris. They have tried for years to be permitted but the association that controls the picturesque Basque game regards women as unable to stand the strain. They may, however, play a variety of the game called "raquette" reputed to be a near ancestor of tennis.

Pelote is akin to handball in theory. The ball is propelled against a wall from the "chistera," a long narrow basket strapped to the wrist, shaped so that it is something like an elongated hand.

Women are seldom permitted to play pelote in the Basque country, along the Spanish border, but a group of Basque girls living here are determined to break down the barriers.

BELGIAN WOMEN PREFER FAMILIES TO POLITICS

Brussels—(AP)—Family life and the home seem to hold a stronger appeal for Belgian women than the hurly-burly of political life. Unlike American and British women, Belgian women haven't yet obtained full political emancipation. They cannot vote for the national senate and chamber of representatives, but if a woman is elected she can sit in either chamber, and there is one woman senator. Belgian women are, however, active in some phases of local government and there are nine women burgomasters. Five women are provincial councillors, 154 are country councillors, 9 are alderwomen and 34 are county tax collectors.

MISS HOBERG WAS HOSTESS LAST EVE
Miss Pauline I.oberg entertained at two tables of bridge at her home last evening. Miss Cathryn Marie Odde winning first prize and Miss Ethel Anderson second. The house was prettily dressed with spring flowers and candles and a very happy evening was enjoyed, culminated by the serving of delicious refreshments.

SHORT WORDS.

English is rapidly discarding its long words and becoming a language of monosyllables, according to Prof. Otto Jespersen of Denmark.

British savants, following the national custom of blaming every new development on America, say that it's our fault. Maybe it is; if so, we ought to be proud of it.

Short words make language a flexible, easily mastered instrument. Consider some of the jaw-wrenchers that other languages contain. In Finland, for instance, a roofpaper tar company has to advertise itself as a "huopaperitervakattotervetdasasakeyhtio." In Danish the old-age pension law is "varemaerkeindregistreretengskontrolkalerne." "Highness," in Russian, is "vyssokojrevoskhoditelstwo." The abstinence movement in Poland is "wstrzemieszliwosc."

If we are tending more and more to one-syllable words, we may be very glad of it.

SOPHISTICATION OUTDONE.

New York, as everybody knows, is the home of the city slicker—the place where sophistication is 100 per cent, where all the old tricks are common knowledge and nobody can be fooled by anything. That, anyhow, is the national theory.

The other day, however, a wandering Yankee blew into New York with a stock of penknives which he had bought for two cents apiece. Daily he would board a subway train, simulate illness, and offer his knives for sale to kind-hearted dupes. And he cleared more than $100 a day, was able to hire a valet, and when finally arrested had upwards of $40,000 in the bank.

New York may be wise and sophisticated. But the old-fashioned Yankee trickster can still find more suckers there than anywhere else in the country.

BANDITS BRING BLESSING.

The Mexican bandit, villain of countless stage and screen thrillers, who has given his country many a black eye in the past, has at last rendered it a service. He has taken a leading part in promoting civil aviation.

It was unintentional, of course. But it seems one of the chief reasons for the spread of air lines to various parts of Mexico is the roving bandit. Trains and automobiles carrying payrolls or important personages often get held up. So Mexican and foreign capitalists are taking to the air. No spurred and pistoled horseman ever yet forced an airplane to stand and deliver.

The Mexican bandit, without at all meaning to, is helping his country along the path of progress.

THE EAVESDROPPER.

Massachusetts has an ancient law, seldom invoked; one providing penalties for any person guilty of being a "common eavesdropper." A few days ago that law was hauled out, dusted off and put to work.

One Theodore Fortune was brought into court accused of eavesdropping. He is charged with listening at doors and windows of a Boston hotel for splices of conversation, and then repeating what he had heard to other guests. Apparently he succeeded in creating quite a furore before he was finally taken into custody. He pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence in $500 bail.

Not all of New England's old-time statutes can be praised, but this one strikes us as a good law. We can think of all kinds of times and places when it might well be invoked.

Boys in one Philadelphia school are taught to wash and iron and sew on buttons. Young fellows these days need some training for matrimony.

Bishop Hughes urges an appeal to bootleggers through newspaper advertising "to stop such business and give yourselves to God." The idea might be even more successful if they could be persuaded to take a drink of their own stuff.

A weekly newspaper says the earth's coldest spot is Verkoyansk, Siberia. That's not definite enough. The earth's coldest spot is a street car in Verkoyansk, Siberia.

A bill filed in the New Hampshire legislature would prohibit the sale of rouge, lip sticks and face powder. Drug stores wouldn't suffer much, however; they could go right on selling sandwiches and automobile tires just the same.

It's no particular news that Gilda Gray, after shaking herself for years, finally shook her husband.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KUNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinties hopped upon his back. This is my happy home and the giant said, "Give me a whack you are welcome as can be. I'm going and yell giddap! Then I will crawl to have a bite of food and as, of course, I'm never rude I hereby ask good. Don't merely pat. You can't you Tintymites to join right in with hurt me. I'm sure of that. You'll know that I'm not harmed 'cause I'll be quiet as a mouse."

"All right," said Scooty. "Goodness knows, I hate to strike you, but here goes." With that he slapped the giant, who burst out in merry glee. "Oh my, oh my, was that a slap? It felt just like a gentle tap. You'd better try your luck again. Maww believe you're made at me."

This time each Tiny swung his hand, and Mister Giant shouted, "Grand! I'll now begin to move, and take you where you want to go." And then, with his back quite downward bent, right through the door he shortly went. The Tinties all hung on because he traveled sure, but slow.

At last he said, "That ends your ride, 'cause you can see that we're

"Out in my kitchen you will find some tasty food of every kind. You Tinties do the serving. I'll just watch you prepare." "All right, we'll show you that we can," one Tiny said, and off they ran. Then Coppy whispered to the rest, "This giant seems quite fair."

When they returned with food to eat, they saw the giant had his feet spread far beneath the table, and they all began to grin. "I have to sit like this," said he, "because I'm so long, as you can see. And now, if food is ready, it is time that we begin."

Poets' Corner

Oh! 'Tis all one to me, all one,

Whether I've money or whether I've none!

He who has money can buy him a wife

And he who has none can be free for life.

He who has money can trade if he choose,

And he who has none has nothing to lose.

He who has money can squint at the fair,

And he who has none escapes from much care.

He who has money has cares not a few

And he who has none can sleep the night through.

He who has money can go to the play,

And he who has none at home can stay.

He who has money can travel about,

He who has none can go without.

He who has money can be coarse as he will,

And he who has none can be coarser still.

He who has money can eat oyster meat

And he who has none the shell can eat.

He who has money can drink foreign wine,

And he who has none with the gout will not pine.

He who has money the cash must pay

And he who has none, says, "Charge it!" pray!

He who has money keeps a dog if he please,

And he who has none is not troubled with fleas.

He who has money must die one day,

And he who has none must go the same way.

Ah! 'Tis all one to me, all one,

Whether I've money, or whether I've none?

Softened hard water with

Melo and see how easy

the dishes are to wash

Hard water combines with soap to make scum. Scum leaves a dirty ring around the dishpan. Scum leaves a dirty glaze on dishes. But put a tablespoonful of Melo in the dishpan! Then see!

No scum! Sparkling dishes! The water delightfully soft and sudsy! Use Melo wherever you want soft water. It makes the soap more effective. With or without soap, water softened with Melo is an unusual cleaner. Get it at your grocer's.

In Hussey's grove near Franklin Grove, where he resided.)

There's a tumbled-down old cabin in a sheltered, cozy nook.

Where towering trees their breezy branches wave

And the silence which abound beneath the leafy canopy,

Is like the sombre silence of the grave.

Though you hear the distant whistle and the roaring of the train,

And autos whiz around the highway curve,

Quiet reigns supreme in this sequestered spot where Nature strives

To show her charms and soothingly to serve.

Just a few brief years ago there lived within this cabin home,

An aged fellow—friend of every man;

And although he lived alone, a lonely life he never led;

He seemed at-tune with God and Nature's plan.

Never did the days seem dreary, never did his heart grow sad,

For Nature always gave to him some company.

Rabbits reconnoitered round the door and sat with haunches spread,

While squirrels saluted from an oak tree.

And the woodchuck was so tame it would not run away from fright;

The lowly toad leaped clumsily along;

Robins and the haughty blue-jays

flitted through the leafy bowers;

The meadow-larks and martins sang their song.

Thus, amid these sylvan beauties in God's auditorium,

The Hermit of the Hollow quietly dwelt;

And it seemed that all the trees their brushing branches bent to weave

A shade so dense its rapture could be felt.

And the dapper dandelions upraised their curly heads of gold;

The buttercups their chalices displayed;

Virgin violets and bluebells added lustre to the hue

Around the cabin where the hermit stayed.

Though the roof bore many patches to keep out the snow and rain,

And didn't even serve this purpose true,

Still it was a comfy cabin with its simple joys sincere,

Where friendly welcome always greeted you.

In one corner of this cabin was a fireplace, rudely built,

With pans and dishes closely clustered round,

And a stove was also standing near to warm the winter chill,

While two old clocks ticked their staccato sound.

Not a luxury existed in this simple quiet abode—

Just chairs, a bed, a table and a lamp;

And a large, wide-throated chimney did not carry all the smoke,

But coughed the soot within when days were damp.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

I'll be perfectly frank with you Jake! I'm as glad to see you as the first of the month! You couldn't have come to visit us at a worse time if we were all clinging to the roof in a flood! I don't know whether this will be harder on your heart or purse, but you will have to pay room rent like the rest!

GENE AHERNS.

Water from a well adjacent to a little church, now burned. He daily brought the wooded pathway over.

So here dwelt the hermit, "Scoop", as his many friends would say—A friendly friend to every friend he knew;

And a willing, faithful servant when at work he was employed, Wherever he plied the spade or hoe for you.

How he prized his maul and wedges, shovels, rakes and old buck-saw,

The pitchfork and the axe of flashing sheen.

There was no one in the country kept his tools more spick and span, And never was there axe with edge more keen.

He would leave his little, lowly cabin early every morn,

And cross the busy highway hastily; Then right through the cemetery, as he said, he always came

To run an errand for some family.

With his face encircled by those smiles of joy to serve his best, And forehead grooved with grief he would not tell.

He was never glum nor gloomy, always witty, always kind,

Whose face of smiles no one but Death could quell.

But his helping hands will never more assist some friend in need; His mortal form lies mould'ring in the tomb; And to show his resting place within the silent sepulchre, No marble marker o'er the mosses loom.

Still within the hearts of living throbs a pulse of reverence

For poor, old "Scoop", hermit-friend of all;

And above the sombre cell where his good soul has left the clay,

His worthy deeds shine as memorials.

HOW ABOUT THE NOTRE DAMES

The University of California, according to its alert public relations counsel, played to more customers last fall than any football team in the country. The Californians drew 427,090 paid admissions to 10 games. Santa Clara drew 42,500; St. Mary's, 55,444; Washington State, 23,879; Southern California, 74,245; Olympic Club, 32,497; Oregon, 17,866; Washington, 21,244; Nevada, 10,950; Stanford, 82,070, and Georgia Tech, 66,404.

NO CONTRACTS NEEDED

Directors of Madison Square Garden couldn't find among Tex Rickard's papers anything to show for a lease of an option on the Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds in New York. When they investigated they found that no papers had been signed and that Rickard in his characteristic way, was operating on his word of honor.

"The Yankee club never signed any contracts with Rickard," Ed Barrow, business manager of the club said. "Our business relations were always conducted on the basis of mouth agreement. We never found any reason to regret. Rickard had first call on the use of our ball park for boxing, and if that is considered an option the option continues for the Garden corporation."

JINTS WANT DEMPSEY

The attitude of the Giants on the boxing privilege at the Polo Grounds has not been made known, but it is understood that the use of the big park will be open to bidders.

Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, is said to have told several promoters that the men who succeeded in signing Dempsey for his expected comeback would get the park.

He would like to promote the match himself, it is understood, if he could get some practical front man like Floyd Fitzsimmons to handle the details.

Unless Dempsey feels that he is bound to the Garden corporation out of respect for his late pal he might decide to promote his own comeback with some front man, and Fitzsimmons would be the logical man.

Dempsey and Fitzsimmons have been great friends for years and Dempsey is a great fellow for giving his friends a break.

TRY AND STOP HIM!

The owners of the other National League clubs might not be so eager to see Brother Stoneham going actively in the business of promoting prize fights. Brother Stoneham used to promote a race track in Cuba, and he finally surrendered to the wishes of his brother magnates and had his name taken off the programs. But it is doubtful that the brothers could prevent him from staging a nice, clean, honest prize fight. And they say all of them are that now.

The magnates tried to prevail on the Giants and the Yanks several years ago to keep boxing out of their parks, but there was too much dough in it as a sideline and the magnates who kicked loudest were those who had parks in towns where boxing wasn't hot.

But One Conference Game This Week End

Chicago, Jan. 23—(AP)—Although Western Conference basketball entered its end of semester doldrums after Monday night's games, Northwestern will keep the court game alive by meeting its traditional non-conference rival, Notre Dame, at Patten gym Saturday.

Only one conference game is scheduled for the remainder of this week, Chicago playing at Ohio State Saturday.

Sixty-one hundred seats, the capacity of Patten gym, have been sold for the Northwestern-Notre Dame fracas, in which the South Bend quintette will be seeking revenge for an early season defeat on its home floor. Northwestern won the game at South Bend with two subs in the lineup and this week will

CARTER'S PINK PILLS

Thinks Big Purse are Ruining Game

Philadelphia, Jan. 23—(AP)—Battling Levinsky thinks big purses "are ruining American heavyweight fighters and in a few years this country will find itself in the same unfortunate condition that England did ten and fifteen years ago." The former light heavyweight champion of the world gave his views in a radio talk last night.

"The public interest in heavyweight matches and the resultant big purses offered by promoters, is causing the class of American heavyweights to deteriorate," said the battler who retired last week after 20 years of fighting. "In a few years our so-called leading heavyweights will be men who have been pushed to the top without the proper training and experience."

"Only one heavyweight in this country today knows the real art of boxing. That's Tommy Loughran. He'll last longer than the rest, too, for he knows how to take care of himself. The others don't. It will be impossible to keep Tommy from the title for when you can't hit a man you can't beat him. No heavyweight can hit Loughran today."

Mandell With Broken Rib Shows His Class

Indianapolis, Jan. 23—(AP)—Fighting with one rib broken, and favoring a knit collarbone that was fractured in a bout last fall, Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, showed all his speed, dash and skill last night in defeating Jack Gillespie of Detroit.

It was Mandell's first fight since his collarbone was fractured at Flint, Mich., in a fight with Jimmy Goodrich last September. In training for last night's fight, the champion suffered a broken rib on his left side, but it did not seem to handicap him or reduce his speed.

Gillespie was a willing foe, but was fighting out of his class.

Issue Invitations to Northwestern's Meet

Chicago, Jan. 23—(AP)—Sixteen hundred invitations to Northwestern university's seventeenth national indoor track, swimming and wrestling interscholastic meet to be held at Patten gym March 22 and 23 were in the mail today. The meet last year attracted more than 1,000 prep school athletes from middle-western and eastern high schools. The wrestling meet is a new feature this year.

To Control Outboard Motor Boat Contests

New York, Jan. 23—(AP)—The sudden rise to prominence of outboard motor boats and the increasing number of races for these tiny craft have brought about the formation of a national organization to control outboard activities. The body which has formed at a meeting here yesterday, will be known as the national outboard association and will have complete supervision over outboard boat races throughout the United States. No record will be recognized unless the racing commission of this body passes on it. The first steps in the formation of a uniform code of rules for the organization were taken at yesterday's meeting but the will not be completed for several weeks.

Yankees to Number Players this Season

New York, Jan. 23—(AP)—By their numbers shall the New York Yankees be known this summer.

Setting a major league precedent, the Yankees have decided to have 12-inch numerals sewed on the backs of their players' shirts so that each may be readily identified by fans in the stands.

Under a tentative arrangement, the regulars will be numbered by their position in batting order.

The scheme common enough in other lines of sport has also been tried in baseball but not by a major league club.

Star Catcher of Cubs to be Married

Chicago, Jan. 23—(AP)—Charles "Gabby" Hartnett, catcher for the Chicago Cubs, and Miss Marshall of Chicago are to be married January 28.

Hartnett and his bride will spend their honeymoon on Catalina Island. They will leave for the spring training camp of the Cubs with the first squad Feb. 14.

SCOT STARTED IT ALL?

London—Now we know who started the Charleston. According to the version offered by G. E. Emery of Melbourne, it was a Scot's girl with a thrifty mind. "She sighted a three-penny piece on the floor while dancing," he says, "and putting her foot on it, worked it off the floor and quietly picked it up."

With Honce on His Trip Around State of Illinois

BY CHARLES HONCE

Associated Press News Writer

Centralia, Ill.—(AP)—Southern Illinois is "Egypt" and Centralia is its gateway. In fact, locally, Centralia is known as "The Queen of the Egyptian Empire."

Whence came the name Egypt? There has been many versions, but it seems generally accepted now that I. R. Cyril G. Hopkins, the father of the "Illinois System of Agriculture," first applied the term to the southernmost thirty-six counties of Illinois.

It seems that early in the state's history a drought and crop failure up-state sent great numbers of farmers to southern Illinois to purchase corn, as in ancient times the sons of Jacob went down to Egypt for the same reason.

Then too several towns of this region bear the names of ancient Egyptian cities, such as Cairo and Thebes; and carrying the comparison still further, the flooded area between the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers is not unlike Egypt inundated by the Nile.

At any rate Dr. Hopkins was enraptured with the possibilities of the territory and once wrote: "The Egyptian Empire contains more tillable land than all New England. It has the climate of Virginia and a network of railroads scarcely equalled in any section of the country, and in addition is more than half surrounded by great navigable rivers."

The original settlers were not considered good farmers; when they had exhausted the soil they moved westward. Dr. Hopkins faith in the soil of Egypt led him to buy what was considered the "poorest farm" in Marion county, of which Centralia is the leading city, to try out his theory of land improvement.

His death cut short his experiments but the farm is operated by his estate, "Pooland Farm." It was named, but it has been an agricultural example to Marion and surrounding counties.

Lovers of this part of the state grow "rhapsodical in describing its beauties and productivity. The description of "Egypt" by A. A. DuBois is worth repeating:

"Bounded on the north by the wide prairies of the cornbelt, with its rich black soil of the glacial drift; on the east by the meandering waters of the Ohio; on the west by the broad flowing waters of the Mississippi, and on the south by the converging of these two mighty rivers, cut across from east to west by the uplift of the Ozarks through its southern portion with its thousand sunlit hills crowned with orchard shadowy valleys watered by a myriad of flowing springs and streams, with its hillside clothed in verdure, dotted with the smaller fruits; with its rich valleys ideal for vegetables and garden trucking; uplands clothed with blue grass the natural home of the dairyman; with the broad expanse of the valley of the Mississippi with its deep alluvial soil unexcelled for fertility by the valleys of the Nile, with the greatest deposit of bituminous coal in America and perhaps in the world; with more than one-half the world's supply of Fluor spar; in scenic beauty beyond compare a paradise for the fruit and vegetable grower, the dairyman, the farmer, a dream fulfilled to the lover of nature; a land literally flowing with milk and honey—an Empire within itself. This is Egypt."

It is also the world's longest sentence, but it tells the facts. Mention coal for instance, and you will be told that Centralia is situated just at the northern edge of the greatest bituminous coal field in the world; that the city has two large modern mines with a daily capacity of 6,000 tons.

Or mention fruits and you will be told of the huge orchards hereabouts and of tremendous fruit crops. Peaches, apples, pears, strawberries, grapes, plums, blackberries—they all are grown here. In fact, from Centralia is shipped every year more than one third of the apples, pears and peaches grown in the state.

The orchards now are gaunt in their winter costumes, but when they are in bloom—acres and acres of them—they are a sight for tired eyes. Even pictures of them are beautiful.

Centralia, now a city of 18,000 and a trading center for 50,000 does not sit like a proud queen at the gate of this empire. Here the Illinois Central and Burlington have established large railroad centers at a cost of several million dollars and employing several thousand men. Also Centralia has many smaller industries and because of its transportation facilities has developed into an important wholesale city. Poultry raising and dairying are rising stars on the county's business horizon.

And of course it has a modern newspaper in a modern plant. At the head of the Centralia Sentinel is Verne E. Joy, a member of the Associated Press and also vice-president of the Illinois Press. J. A. Morrison is managing editor. The Centralia bureau of The Associated Press installed for the collection of Southern Illinois news is in the office of the Sentinel.

It is worth mentioning that Egypt was the earliest settled region of the state. The first settlers came from Kentucky and Tennessee following the trail blazed by George Clark a hundred and fifty years ago. They moved into Marion county in 1813. It appears that the first comers were more interested in hunting than in farming and when it became known that a railroad was to be built through this territory, many families trekked further west for fear the railroad would scare away the game.

This is real Heato weather. If you feel trouble you get a box of Heato.

Checks Code Name for Purched Herd

Frank A. Carpenter, whose herd of purchased Holstein dairy cattle is well known in Dixon, has recently chosen a trade name to identify his herd, according to an announcement made by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America which registered the name for Mr. Carpenter. "Chiviani" is the name chosen as a part of the name of each individual animal in the herd.

All registered Holsteins have a name and number. The name usually indicating the ancestral blood lines.

This prefix trade mark will be used by Mr. Carpenter, as a further means of identifying individual animals by indicating the farm where the animal was bred. Since the term was established more than 15 years Holstein breeders have reserved trademark names.

Coulterville to Observe Birthday

Coulterville, Ill., Jan. 23—(AP)—First settled in the year that Andrew Jackson was inaugurated president, this little town of 1,400 in Randolph county will celebrate its centenary this year.

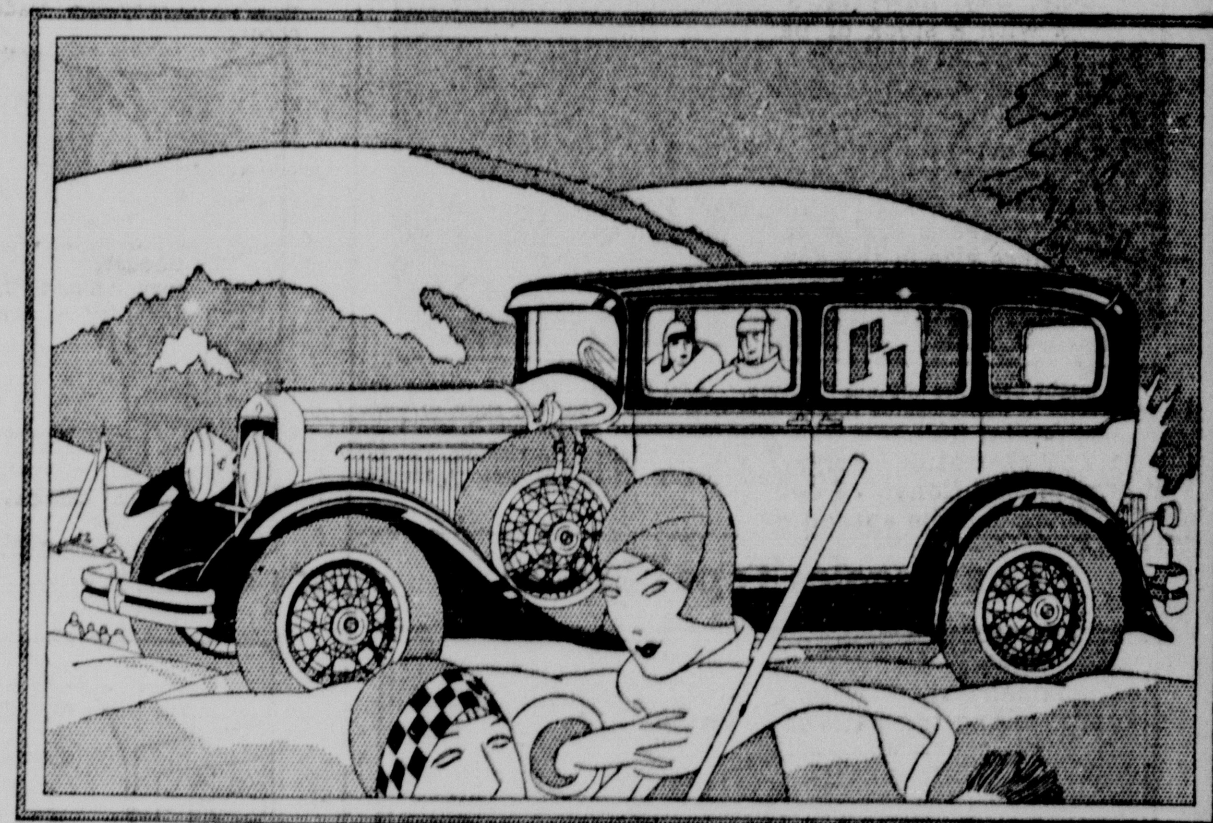

The first permanent house on the present site of Coulterville, which still stands as the oldest landmark in Randolph county, was completed by James Coulter, a Madison county pioneer in 1833. In 1829 he had constructed a log cabin in which he lived while building "Rock House."

Residents of Coulterville plan special honor in the centennial to Solomon Maxwell East, born in Coulterville in 1840, whose death occurred only last year.

There goes another smashup due to brakes not working as they should work. Those brakes have been giving a warning for a long time to that driver, he just kept forgetting to get his brakes fixed up.

Having brakes relined with the very best of brake lining and having those brakes work right gives the driver a lot of confidence, the ability to stop QUICK means something these days with all the cars on the roads.

Let us examine your brakes before it's too late, possibly your brakes only need adjustment to make them work as they should, bring your car in and you will get a good job whether it's relining or adjusting.

Cuba Hails New Air Service

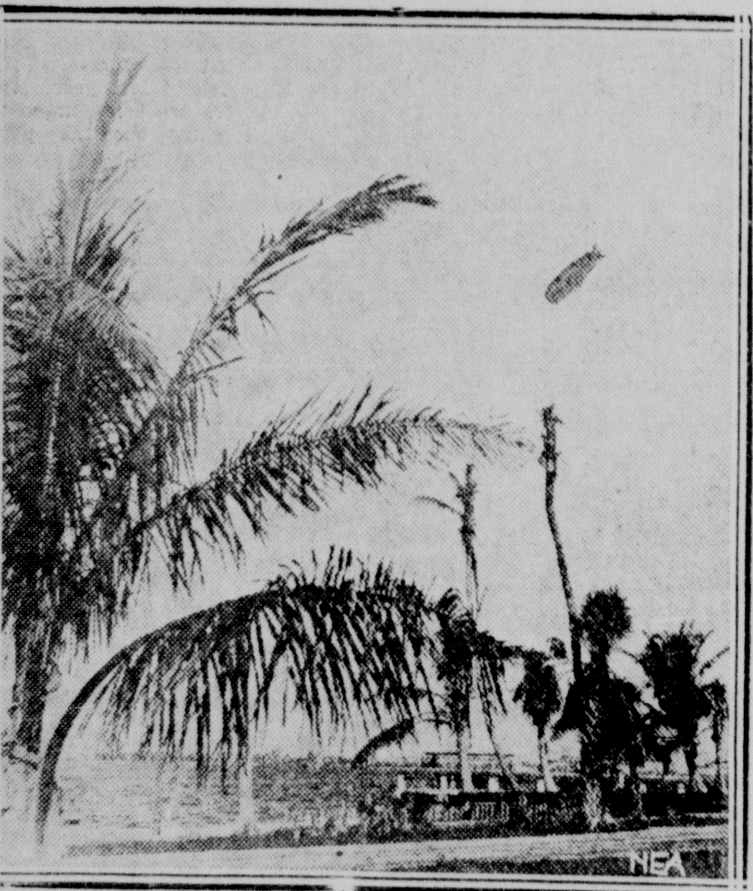

Cuba marked with enthusiastic ceremonies the inauguration of regular airplane passenger and mail service between the United States, Havana and the West Indies. Representing the United States in the ceremonies at Havana were the three pictured at the top, left to right: Amelia Earhart, Ambassador Noble Brandon Judah, and Mrs. G. Grant Mason, Jr., wife of the Havana manager of the new air line. Below, Senorita Esther T. Rojas, daughter of Cuban Secretary of War Rojas, is shown as she christened the plane "Cuba," which will be flown over the Pan-American air route.

So This Means Victory!

This might bear the caption "Victory." And it does indicate victory for the University of Pennsylvania sophomores over juniors for the right to wear their sweaters during the school year. The victorious sophs are shown here after the battle, raising their leader, Marvin Schadel of Harrisburg, Pa., on their shoulders after they had won the decision. If this is victory, shed a tear for the defeated juniors.

Los Angeles Tops Florida!

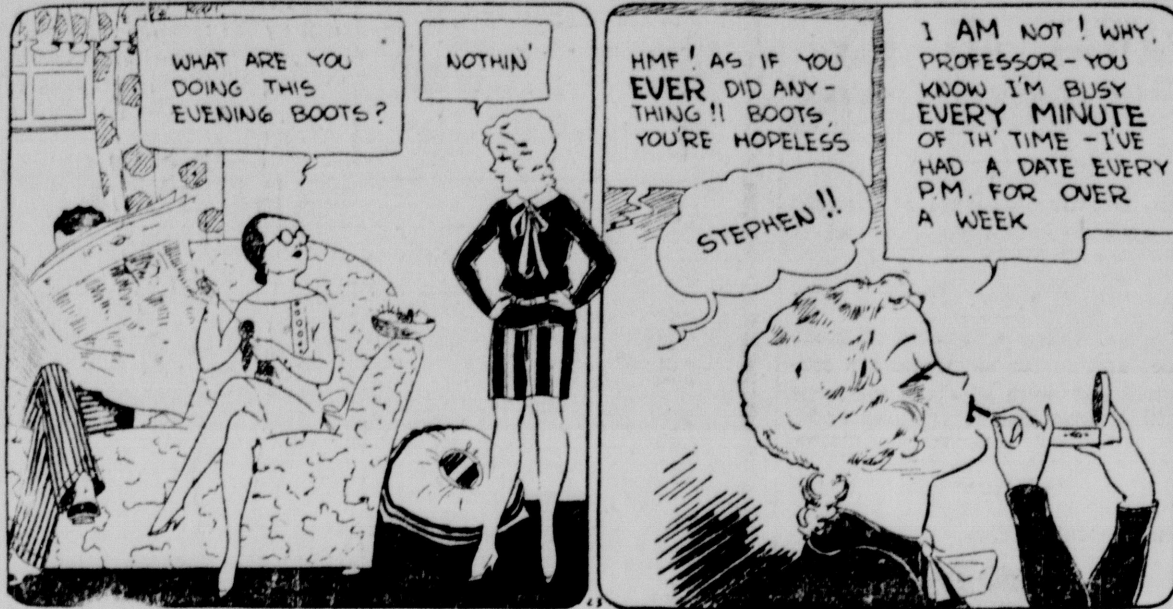

What's that? Los Angeles above Florida! The very idea! Yet, here it is, only we don't mean to say that California excels Florida, no, no, not that. But the "queen of the skies" sailing majestically over Palm Beach, does make a very pretty picture. It was taken during the recent cruise of the huge dirigible to Florida and Cuba.

To Hold Conference on Cities' Problem

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Proposing to "develop confidence and a sympathetic attitude between members of the legislature and governing authorities of municipalities," officials of cities, villages and towns of Illinois will meet here early in February for the biennial legislative conference on municipalities.

Sponsoring the conference, the Illinois Municipal league points out that about one-third of the measures considered by the assembly affect the rights and powers of municipal officers.

"Municipalities have a two-fold function," said the Municipal League bulletin announcing the meeting. "First they are agents of the state for the administration of state policies and functions locally; and second they are instruments for the performance of purely local needs."

"Both sides of the nature of the municipal corporation, therefore, make it necessary that the members of the general assembly and the local authorities know and understand one another. Much of the welfare of the state is in the hands of these local authorities and they should be granted powers which are reasonable and workable."

The exact date of the Springfield conference is yet to be announced.

GLY-CAS TOOK AWAY ALL HIS STOMACH PAINS

Mr. Shuman in Best of Health and Says Great Herbal Remedy Only Thing to Help Him.

"I had taken a number of medicines and so far as results are concerned they were all about the same, until I began taking Gly-Cas and I tell you, it is certainly a different kind of preparation from all the others I had used," Mr. William Shuman, 402 Ewing St., Fremont, Ohio, recently said.

MR. WILLIAM SHUMAN.

"I had stomach trouble and not a light case, either," he continued. "There was an awful burning feeling in my stomach after meals and if I bent over a hot, watery substance would run from my mouth. Not only food, but even cold water upset my stomach and pains that came in the pit of my stomach were terrible. I got so I was never entirely free from headaches, my tired all the time and I guess my entire system had gotten in a rundown condition. I would take one medicine and then have to turn to another and all the time I seemed to be getting worse instead of better. But I had never found anything like the Gly-Cas before. In 2 or 3 days I began to feel better, then the awful burning sensation left my stomach and the watery substance ceased to come up in my throat and mouth and I have now been freed of the former terrible pains in the pit of my stomach. I am simply enjoying good health now and I recommend the Gly-Cas to other as the only medicine that ever did me any good."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Ambly, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

THIS HAS HAPPENED ASHTORETH ASHE AND HOLLY HART were married the other day in Boston. A quiet little wedding in the office of MR. HARVEY HIGGINBOTTOM, an attorney who is also justice of the peace.

Ashtoreth wore a black crepe affair, six months old, a small velvet hat, and a pointed fox scarf. The scarf was a gift from the groom. The bride had time yet to buy a real gift. Only a few pencils—earrings, a necklace, and an enormous ring.

Mr. Hart is a multi-millionaire, and deeply in love with his beautiful wife. Before their marriage, she was stenographer in his employ, who played her cards well, and couldn't help being exquisite. They are sailing for Paris on the late de France, leaving MAIZIE, Ashtoreth's adoring mother, the first in Boston, with SADIE MORTON to keep her company.

Sadie, a little ex-filing clerk, had not yet so much as contemplated blackmailing Mr. Hart. Sadie isn't really bad, but she is a little bit of a schemer. Maizie can manage her all right, though. Maizie, with her heart of gold, and her big jovial soul.

Ashtoreth, by the way, is 23. And her worshiping husband must be nearly 50—old enough, at any rate, to be a little bit of a schemer. Maizie can manage her all right, though. Maizie, with her heart of gold, and her big jovial soul.

ford, who lived in one of those places you read about in the Gibbs' novels, and wanted them to go shooting.

Hollis had lots of friends aboard. They drank innumerable aperitifs, and played incessant bridge. And chatted of books and travel, and the stock market. So that Ashtoreth had, sometimes, a suffocating feeling of being completely swamped. Cocktails made her ill, because the passage was a little rough. She couldn't play bridge, nor deck games. And she'd had so little time to read! As for stocks, and bulls and bears, and buying on margin, and selling short—well, a girl can't know every thing.

Ashtoreth was glad that Lady Mary had buck teeth. She knew if the truth were told, Lady Mary would have been glad to exchange all her erudition, and her high-brow ways, for a good set of even, white teeth, to sparkle every time she opened her mouth. And Mrs. Humbert Worthington had the biggest teeth! Ashtoreth found them absurdly reassuring.

TO FIGHT MERGER OF PROBATION AND PAROLE OFFICIALS

Central Howard Association
Announces Fight Against Plan

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Prospective legislation to merge probation and parole administration, recommended by faculty members of three Illinois universities, will be opposed by the Central Howard Association of Chicago, an organization to aid men and boys who have strayed beyond the limits of the law.

No bills embodying the proposed legislation have been presented to the legislature, but the association is preparing their side of the case for presentation if and when the bills are introduced.

Merger of probation and parole under one administrative board as recommended by Dean Albert Harbo of the University of Illinois School of Law; Prof. Andrew A. Bruce of the Northwestern University Law School; and Prof. E. W. Burgess of the University of Chicago. These men comprised a special committee which recently made scientific survey of the parole system.

F. Emory Lyon, superintendent of the Howard Central association which includes Superior Court Judge Hugo Pam and Vice President Charles Dawes as members of its board of directors, explained the opposition to the proposal.

"The Illinois adult probation law," Lyon said, "was passed as a separate measure and should continue under its own administration, with a state probation commission with a specially trained secretary to supervise the work."

"Extension of the work would mean its adoption and application in the various counties of the state. Heretofore it has been effective chiefly in Chicago and a few other counties. It has not and any supervision and no central body or expert to seek the extension of its usefulness."

"The parole commission in referring to adult probation, called attention to the present weakness of its administration. They recommended that adult probation work be merged with the state parole board. This method does not seem advisable. Ohio and Indiana tried it and the results were unsatisfactory. I also doubt whether such a move would be constitutional."

"It would be, too, very impractical, inasmuch as the parole board has ample duties in its field. Still further, it is the opinion of experts that supervising probationers who have not served terms in institutions requires an entirely different psychological approach than is needed in the after-care of those who have served terms in institutions."

SAVAGE TRIBESMEN INLUISH AMERICANS AND KILL MINISTER

Charles R. Crane Was In Auto When Missionary
Was Shot

Basra, Iraq Jan. 22.—(AP)—Slaying from ambush by Wahabi tribesmen of the Rev. Henry A. Birked, American missionary, was expected today to have an important effect upon the political fortunes of the Saudi, potentate of the Arabian desert.

One hundred of the tribesmen who are known for their ferocity, waited in ambush within the Iraq frontier for the American party.

Charles R. Crane, of Chicago, former American Minister to China, and Mr. Birked were in a closed automobile in advance of the party which was going from Basra to Kuwait.

There was a sudden burst of rifle fire from the nearby scrub and Mr. Birked slumped forward dead, a bullet having entered his shoulder, and hit the spinal cord. Mr. Crane escaped injury.

Second Car Untouched

A second automobile carrying J. O. Crane, a brother of Charles R. Crane, and Charles Jones, a valet, was not hit by any of the bullets. The tribesmen gave chase but were soon outdistanced.

The Wahabis are nominally under the sway of Ibn Saud and their border raids have been a source of trouble to the British government which holds a mandate over the kingdom of Iraq. Last March, tanks armored cars and airplanes were concentrated along the frontier when it was rumored that the desert tribes were about to launch a "holy war" against tribes in the British mandated territories. Efforts to settle the questions concerning the border by diplomacy failed last August.

Was Michigan Man

Mr. Birked was a native of Kalamazoo, Mich., and came to Iraq four years ago after eleven years on the Persian Gulf. He was a missionary of the Reformed Church in America. Mr. Crane is personally acquainted with Ibn Saud.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford
six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture.

A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

The brake construction on the front wheels also is unusual. Here the brakes are enclosed without the use of a leather boot or sliding joint to protect the linkage between the brake rods and the mechanism on the brake plate.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a regulating screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.
